

PGI International an international manufacturer of precision products used in flow control applications -- instrumentation products, gas and liquid sampling systems, thermowells and temperature probes, thermoelectric chargers, valve fittings and wellhead components and production flow control products. PGI International serves the oil, gas, process and agricultural industries. PGI International offers superior design in our product offering and quality for instrument valves, instrument manifolds and sampling systems.